Each author of accepted manuscripts is required to carefully read and sign four statements: (1) Authorship Responsibility, (2) Disclosure of Potential Conflicts of Interest, (3) Copyright Agreement (found in a separate form); and (4) Acknowledgment Statement. After signing these statements, authors must submit them to the PJG website via the OJS platform using their log in credentials. If necessary, authors should also distribute copies of these documents to their co-authors to ensure compliance with the submission requirements.

1. Authorship Responsibility Form

Each author should have participated sufficiently in the work to take public responsibility for its content and have met the authorship criteria set out by the International Council of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE). He or she should have made substantial contributions to all four of the following conditions:

- (1) Conception or design of work; or acquisitions, analysis, or interpretation of data for the work; AND
- (2) Drafting or revising the manuscript critically for important intellectual content; AND
- (3) Final approval of the version to be published; AND
- (4) Agreement to be accountable for all aspects of the work in ensuring that questions related to the accuracy or integrity of any part of the work are appropriately investigated and resolved.

General supervision of the research, advising or editing, collection of data, funding acquisition or statistical analysis do not constitute authorship.

The authors hereby affirm the following:

- The manuscript has neither been previously published nor is currently under consideration for publication elsewhere. Additionally, the research reported will not be submitted for publication elsewhere until the Philippine Journal of Gastroenterology has made a final decision regarding its acceptability. Any prior posting of submitted material on a website should be disclosed in the cover letter.

- The manuscript represents truthful and original work devoid of fabrication, fraud, or plagiarism.

Authorship Responsibility, Disclosure of Conflict of Interest, and Acknowledgement Statement

- All authors have made significant scientific contributions to the study and are thoroughly acquainted with primary data.
- Each author has thoroughly reviewed the complete manuscript, assumes responsibility for its content and completeness, and acknowledges shared responsibility in the event of any fault or fraudulent activity within the paper.
- Permission has been secured from the copyright holder to reproduce material not owned by the authors in all media forms, with proper acknowledgment of the source.
- The manuscript contains no violations of existing copyrights or other third-party rights, nor does it contain material of an obscene, indecent, libelous, or otherwise unlawful nature. To the best of the authors' knowledge, this work does not infringe upon the rights of others.
- Any provided formula or dosage is accurate and, if properly followed, will not cause harm to any individual.
- All authors agree to indemnify and hold harmless the journal and its editorial staff against any claims and expenses, including legal costs and expenses, arising from any breach of this agreement and other agreements provided herein.

2. Disclosure of Potential Conflicts of Interest

Complete each row by checking 'No' or providing the requested information. If you have more than one relationship, you may submit additional forms.

The Work Under Consideration for Publication: Have you or your institution at any time received payment or services from a third party for any aspect of the submitted work (including but not limited to grants, data monitoring board, study design, manuscript preparation, statistical analysis, etc.)? This section aims to gather information about the work submitted for publication. The reporting period encompasses the entire process, from the initial conceptualization and planning to the current state. We seek details regarding any resources obtained, whether directly or indirectly through your institution, to facilitate the completion of the work. Checking "No" indicates that you conducted the work without financial assistance from any third party. In such cases, the work was funded exclusively by your institution, without the involvement of third-party funding. If you or your institution received funding from a third party to support the work, such as a government granting agency, charitable foundation, or commercial sponsor, please check "Yes." Subsequently, provide the necessary information to specify the type of support received and whether the payment was allocated to you, your institution, or both.

Relevant financial activities outside the submitted work:

Have you or your institution have any financial relationships (regardless of amount of compensation) with entities as described below?

This section inquires about your financial associations with entities within the biomedical field that may have the potential to influence, or create the appearance of potentially influencing, the content of your submitted work. You are required to disclose interactions with ANY entity that could be broadly relevant to the subject matter of the work. For instance, if your article pertains to testing kinase inhibitors in liver cancer, you should disclose all connections with entities involved in diagnostic or therapeutic approaches to cancer in general, rather than solely focusing on kinase inhibitors or liver cancer-related entities. Disclose all sources of revenue directly paid to you or your institution within the 36 months preceding the submission of the work. This includes all funds from sources relevant to the submitted work, not exclusively from the entity that sponsored the research. Additionally, any interactions with the sponsor of the work that extend beyond the submitted work should be included in this disclosure. When in doubt, it is generally preferable to disclose a relationship rather than omit it.

Regarding grants received for work unrelated to the submitted manuscript, you should disclose support ONLY from entities that may be financially affected by the published work, such as pharmaceutical companies or foundations supported by entities with a potential financial interest in the outcome. Public funding sources, such as government agencies, charitable foundations, or academic institutions, are exempt from disclosure. For instance, if a government agency funded a study in which you were involved, and the drugs were provided by a pharmaceutical company, you are only required to list the pharmaceutical company as a source of support.

Other relationships

Are there other relationships or activities that readers could perceive to have influenced, or that give the appearance of potentially influencing, what you wrote in the submitted work?

- No other relationships/conditions/circumstances that present a potential conflict of interest
 Yes, the following relationships/conditions/circumstances are present (explain below):

* This means money that your institution received for your efforts on this study.

 Use this section to provide any needed explanation.

 For example, if you report a consultancy above there is no need to report travel related to that consultancy on this line.

3. See separate form for the Copyright Agreement in the INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS page

4. Acknowledgment Statement

Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission from all individuals mentioned in the acknowledgment section.

I confirm that all individuals who have contributed to the work reported in the manuscript but do not meet authorship criteria (e.g., data collection, analysis, writing, or editing assistance) are duly acknowledged in the manuscript, along with their specific contributions.

I affirm that all individuals named in the acknowledgment section have granted me written permission to include their names.
